

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Viviana Andreescu, PhD, is an Associate Professor in the Department of Criminal Justice at the University of Louisville. Her research focuses on violent crimes, violent victimization, fear of crime, gender and crime, and public opinion about social justice issues related to social minorities, in a national and international context. Contact: viviana.andreescu@louisville.edu.

Ana-Maria Teodora Andronic is currently a PhD student at the Faculty of Psychology of the Al. I. Cuza University of Iasi. She has a Bachelor's degree in Psychology and Sciences of Education and a Master's degree in European Law. Ana has been working for a London-based charitable organization since 2017, supporting refugees and migrants to build a meaningful life in the UK. Contact: Ana.andronic@student.uaic.ro.

Ichrack El Houda Bopucmin holds a Master in Policies and Management in North Africa and Middle East, and has carried out research activities, particular on the history and institutions of Arab countries and Islam in Europe and the management of migration flows. Since 2021 she is associate researcher at ISMed.

Carmen Ungur-Brehoi, PhD, is Lecturer at the University of Oradea, International Relations, History, Political Sciences and Communication Sciences Faculty, The Department of Political Science and Communication Sciences. Contact: carmenbrehoi@yahoo.com.

Mariana Viorica Buda is lecturer PhD at the University of Oradea, Faculty of History, International Relations, Political Sciences and Communication Sciences, Department of International Relations and European Studies, where she teaches Spanish and French for specific purposes, but also classes about European studies, at both BA and MA level. Her research interests are: languages for specific purposes, multilingualism, languages of Europe, communication. Contact: mbuda@uoradea.ro.

Lucien Vilhalva de Campos was born in Brazil and holds a PhD in International Relations at the University of Lisbon, Portugal. Between 2020 and 2022 he held research positions in Germany, first at the Heinrich Heine University Düsseldorf, and then at the Center for Advanced Internet Studies (CAIS – Bochum). Currently, he is a visiting researcher at the Department of International Relations of the Central European University (CEU), in Vienna, Austria. The topics of forced migration, security, activism and humanitarianism played a significant role in all his research throughout his academic career. Contact: lvdecampos@gmail.com.

Immacolata Caruso holds a degree in Political Science, and carries out research activities, particular on the countries of the southern shore of the Mediterranean in the disciplinary fields of Political Sciences, Development Economics. Since 2009 she is Member of the Italian Association of Regional Sciences, and has conducted studies on mobility, knowledge and enhancement of the tangible and intangible cultural heritage of the Euro-Mediterranean regions.

Abinet Fulasa Chinkilo is currently a third year PhD student at the Center for Food Security Studies, College of Development Studies, Addis Ababa University, Ethiopia. He is a certified management consultant and senior researcher. He served as school director, lecturer in both private and public universities, department head of Basic Sciences in Public Health Science College, coordinator of teachers' training college, team leader of a group of researchers, senior researcher as well as lead researcher. Moreover, currently, his work has targeted to cross-border migration and return migration decision, primarily on linking return migration, livelihoods and food security. He has published a book entitled Major issues making competent in Occupational Competency Assessments amongst others. Contact: abserku@yahoo.com.

Ticu Constantin is a professor at the Faculty of Psychology and Educational Sciences, Alexandru Ioan Cuza University of Iasi. Author of more than 80 articles published in specialized journals and 10 scientific books (of which 5 with a single author), he is also the creator of numerous standardized tools for personality assessment or organizational diagnosis, tools included in the PsihoProfile web platform (www.psihologi.ro). Researcher, with an interest in the analysis of motivational persistence, success / failure in long-term personal projects, offers specialized advice in staff evaluation, organizational diagnosis and change management.

Teferee Mekonnen Kassa, PhD, is an Associate Professor at the Department of Geography and Environmental Studies, Addis Ababa University, Ethiopia. Amongst others, his research has focused on the causes, patterns and policy responses of Illicit Cross-border Migration in Ethiopia. He served in various universities as a lecturer, program and center coordinator, department head, director of human resource development and staff affairs director. He has also successfully advised many students, examined theses and dissertations and produced teaching materials just to mention a few.

Cristina Matiuta, PhD, is Associate Professor at the University of Oradea, Romania, Department of Political Science and Communication. She teaches in the areas of Civil Society, Political Parties and Theory and practice of democracy. She is Jean Monnet professor in the field of European integration studies. Contact: cmatiuta@uoradea.ro.

Thu Huong Pham is a Ph.D. candidate at the Department of Asian Studies, Faculty of Arts, Palacky University, Olomouc, Czechia. At the department, she taught several courses for BA students such as Vietnamese phonetics, Vietnamese culture and Vietnamese diaspora community. She also has been a researcher at Institute of Human Studies, Vietnam Academy of Social Sciences since 2011. In this position, she has had many opportunities to take part in research projects regarding human development and human rights in Vietnam. She earned a master's degree in Sociology from Graduate Academy of Social Sciences, Hanoi, Vietnam, and another master's degree in International Development Studies from Mendel University, Brno, Czechia. Her research focuses on partner choice of young Vietnamese, Vietnamese diaspora, migration, and human development. Contact: thuhuong.pham01@upol.cz.

Irina Pop, PhD, is a Lecturer at the Department of Political Science and Communication Sciences at the University of Oradea. Her main research interest revolves around xenophobia <https://www.comxen.ro/proiect> legal and illegal migration, and identity. She currently works on EU founded research project Sliding Doors <https://slidomigration.eu/en/activities-calendar/training/> concerning migration in the EU. Contact: popirinamihaela@gmail.com.

Temesgen Tilahun Teshome, PhD, is an Assistant Professor at the Center for Food Security Studies, College of Development Studies, Addis Ababa University, Ethiopia. His research has focused on livelihoods, food security, vulnerability, and other associated areas are amongst others. He served as university lecturer, center coordinator, supervisor and advisor of many undergraduate and post graduate university students.

Bruno Venditto holds a PhD in sociology; interested in the problems related to economic development particularly of the African countries, over the years has focused his studies on the nexus Migration - Development and gender empowerment. Since 2018 he is Member of the Association for African Studies in Italy. Research activities have been alternated with the management of developmental projects in Africa within the framework of international cooperation. Contact: bruno.venditto@ismed.cnr.it.